About ONSAP

The Ontario Society of Adlerian Psychology is a charitable organization (founded in 2010) dedicated to furthering the understanding and application of Adlerian Psychology (also called Individual Psychology) based on the work of Alfred Adler. We want to further community harmony through effective parenting, counselling, teaching and community development based on the principles of mutual respect, cooperation, encouragement and social interest in daily life. We promote and provide education and professional development opportunities for parents, educators, individuals and mental health professionals, based on the philosophy of Alfred Adler. The Ontario Society of Adlerian Psychology is governed by a Board of Directors.
